Acknowledgements

Vinaka vakalevu to the people of Nawairuku for their wonderful hospitality, generosity and support for this research. Thank you to those who shared your knowledge, experiences, stories and insights that are the heart of this paper. Thank you Teresa and Danny Rietberg for introducing us to Nawairuku and for your continued support of the research. Thank you, Lui Manuel, Nadroga-Navosa Provincial Council and Jeremy Hills, University of South Pacific (Suva campus), for your partnership and in-country support. The contributions of Professor Roy Sidle, Dr. Christine Jacobson and Dr. Vikki Schaffer, and members of the Environmental Change Research Group in the Sustainability Research Centre at the University of the Sunshine Coast, notably Eric Lede, Mathew Brown, Genevieve Lalonde, David Fawcett, Rachele Wilson and Kerrie Pickering, are also acknowledged. Thank you to Marie Puddister for Figure 1.

Funding

This research was carried out with the aid of an Australian Government Research Training Program Scholarship awarded to Currenti and the University of the Sunshine Coast Fellowship program (Pearce).

Compliance with Ethical Standards

The research was undertaken with the agreement of the village of Nawairuku and the research was licensed by the Fiji Department of Immigration (#I7497899). Study protocols were approved by the Human Research Ethics Boards at the University of the Sunshine Coast (A/15/751) and University of the South Pacific, Suva, Fiji.
